

2024 MAGC Call for Session Proposals “hiSTORY, herSTORY, mySTORY”!

It's our conference's 50th Anniversary, Y'all!

Are you ready to share your STORY? Are you ready to help others discover theirs? STORY is found in more than just Reading, Writing, and hiSTORY. Science and Math processes have their own STORY. Teachers, Counselors, Psychometrists, Administrators, and Parents of Gifted Children may have their own STORY of giftedness and other neurodivergence to discover. MAGC needs you and your expertise!

Session proposals are now being accepted for the November 2024 MAGC Conference in Tupelo. Please consider presenting your favorite units/strategies/research. Each of us has a valuable STORY to share! What may seem like the “same old STORY” to you may be just what someone else needs to find connection.

Please submit your proposal here.

Sessions will be 45-50 minutes long. Need another reason to share your STORY? Here it is - one main presenter for each break-out session will be able to attend the conference for a discounted rate of just $25! Make sure to include a resume with your proposal; this info is used in the allocation of CEUs.

Proposals are due by August 31. If you have any questions, concerns, or just want to brainstorm, feel free to email us at magc.heather.rowland@gmail.com Thanks!

Heather Rowland and Kayla Quick, Conference Co-Chairs

“If history were taught in the form of stories, it would never be forgotten.” -
Rudyard Kipling

“Everything has a purpose. And that purpose has a story that goes along with it.
It just depends on what your passion is.” - Kobe Bryant

“Maybe stories are just data with soul.” - Brene Brown